

COMPILER

Abstract

A compiler is provided which effectively performs a data flow optimization process for a program wherein a plurality of branches and merges are arranged in series,
5 without incurring a drastic increase in the amount of code. The compiler, and the method thereof, may be implemented in hardware, software, or both.

FIG. 1 is a block diagram of a compiler system.